Joshua Karangwa grew up in Rwanda, where he saw mothers and children carrying water on their heads for miles to survive. He graduated from the Presbyterian Pan American School in Texas and his education there allowed him to earn a 4-year scholarship to Schreiner University where as an engineering student, he dreams of designing ways to make water more accessible. The Christmas Joy Offering assists schools and colleges equipping communities of color to prepare future leaders like Joshua.

Ralph and Mary Hamburger have been married for 65 years. Ralph was a Presbyterian pastor. Mary's health caused her to need to move to a skilled nursing unit, which strained them financially. Thanks to a gift from the Christmas Joy Offering, they are now able to live together at the same skilled nursing unit. They are grateful that the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.), through the Christmas Joy Offering, takes care of their retired pastors in this important way.
